

Q How can I get Leslie Bibb's mellow makeup look in the August issue?

Christina via e-mail

A Makeup artist Kristofer Buckle blended two Laura Mercier eye shadows—Coffee Ground (near right) and American Coffee—on Bibb's lids and defined her lash lines with black liner. He brightened the area around the eyes with Dior Skin Flash Radiance Booster in Candlelight, then woke up Bibb's lips with a touch of Revlon Super Lustrous gloss in Coffee Gleam.

Q What kind of baby stroller do Gwyneth Paltrow and Chris Martin have for Apple and Moses?

Chrissy Prince Providence, R.I.

A The couple were seen strolling last spring with daughter Apple riding in a Bugaboo Cameleon. True to its name, the Cameleon has a reversible handle bar, a three-position seat with removable fleece insert, and a detachable bassinet. Paltrow and Martin chose a gray-and-pink version from a range of four colors and eight fabrics. Prefer a more minimalist design? Check out Bugaboo's Gecko model.

Q I've noticed that upscale restaurants are seasoning dishes with sea salt. What should I buy and where?

Lillian Bombay Chicago

A Chef Thomas Keller of the restaurants Per Se in New York City and French Laundry in California's Napa Valley likes Maldon sea salt from England ($6.50; seasalt.com) for its versatility and flakiness. As a finishing condiment, try a bold, crunchy fleur de sel (harvested from seabeds) from O & Co., or a milder type from France's M. Gilles Hervy. Halen Môn 10-spice sea salt will enhance roasts or marinades, and Artisan Salt Co.'s Salish imparts a hint of smoke.

Clockwise from top: Sea salt from Artisan Salt Co. ($16; seasalt.com); M. Gilles Hervy ($13; cortibros.biz); O & Co. ($9.50; oliviersandco.com); and Halen Môn ($8.95; chelseamarketbaskets.com).
